

WILSON AT CAPITOL TO DISCUSS TARIFF

PRESIDENT AGAIN STARTLES
CONGRESS WHEN HE SENDS
NOTICE HE WILL CON-
FER AT CAPITOL.

TALKS WITH SENATORS

Is Anxious That Unanimity Should Prevail Between Both Houses in Regard to Proposed Tariff Measure.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, April 9.—President Wilson announced early today that he would meet the democratic members of the finance committee in the president's room at the capitol at three o'clock this afternoon to talk about the tariff.

Although unofficially it had been announced before President Wilson took office that he expected to go to the president's room at the capitol at frequent intervals to be in close touch with congress, the news that he would make the first visit today following so closely upon the notable scene of yesterday when the president read his message personally to a joint assembly in the hall of the house, set official circles by the ears.

Opposition in Senate.
The president sent word early today by Secretary Tamm to the members of the committee that he would like to meet them at three o'clock. The pivot of tariff reforms, it is generally recognized, will be the senate, where the democratic margin is small and where opposition to certain schedules is already apparent.

When Mr. Wilson last discussed with democratic senators of the finance committee the method of tariff reform, they argued as a unit for splitting the bill into separate schedules, assuring him that wider attention would be focused on each schedule and that agreements among senators might be eliminated.

Anxious for Agreement.
Mr. Wilson is anxious that a unanimity of opinion should prevail between the two houses and has declared that the arguments advanced by both sides were good. The president's first tendency was to favor a single measure, but since the main features of the bill became known there have been evidences of opposition from senators who oppose free wool and the removal of all duty on sugar in three years.

The president is said to feel that more progress can be made by a visit to the capitol, where he can confer with the democratic members of the senate finance committee and the latter quickly can get in touch with senators reluctant to favor the bill at present. Mr. Wilson firmly believes in intimate debate on matters of legislation not only as a time-saver, but as a means of averting misunderstanding that might come by having the administration's views transmitted indirectly.

Is Party's Counsellor.
The president's conception of that method of obtaining legislation is that as the leader of the party that elected him he can be a counsellor and advisor. While he never has suggested that the executive in either the state or the nation should actually interfere in the progress of legislation, he has always maintained that the voice of the party leaders should be heard in party councils.

Intimations have come from the White House that if the president is defeated in the present session on the issue of tariff reform he will go before the people of those states whose representatives in both houses of congress have thwarted the party pro-

SWITCHMAN ESCAPES A SERIOUS INJURY

Jesse Meadows Narrowly Escapes
Having Leg Cut Off When He Falls Off Rear End of Car.

While riding on the rear end of a freight car, Jesse Meadows, residing at 232 Palm street, employed on the St. Paul road as a switchman, fell off and escaped serious injury in the most fortunate manner. As he fell the running board of the car behind struck him on the shins and knocked him out of danger. The engine was not running fast at the time of the accident, which happened yesterday afternoon at the yards. Mr. Meadows sustained several slight injuries and was given medical attention. His injuries will keep him from working only a short time.

Robert Brown, switchman on the St. Paul railroad, received several bad cuts and bruises when he fell through a bay chute in a stock car. He was going across the moving train when he fell into an open door and down into the car below. He was only slightly hurt and the accident happened about the same time as when Mr. Meadows met with his accident.

Cleaning Up Yards.
Seventy-five section men under the direction of A. Stableton are engaged in making the long-needed repairs at the St. Paul railroad yards in Janesville. The men have been working for the past week and have accomplished a great deal of work.

The yards have been thoroughly cleaned up and the rails and iron that has accumulated have been piled up out of the way. At present the men are engaged in re-balancing the track and laying heavier rails along the side-tracks and the line to Mineral Point. The tracks are being raised because, during the flood period every spring the company has to contend with flooded tracks. This work has long been needed and when the section gang are through at Janesville it is expected that they will be put out on the Mineral Point division and extensive repairs will be made along this line.

JUBILEE OF COLLEGE

Philadelphia, Pa., April 9.—Many high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic hierarchy of this country, prominent educators of Roman Catholic institutions of learning, distinguished laymen and alumni of La Salle College attended the pontifical mass at the Cathedral today which marked the opening of the celebration of the golden jubilee of La Salle College. In the evening there will be a banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford and tomorrow evening the anniversary exercises will close with a public reception at the Metropolitan Opera House, at which addresses will be delivered by distinguished Catholic educators. The college was founded in 1858 when the late Archbishop Wood, in conjunction with a committee of the Christian Brothers and others, obtained from the state a charter incorporating the institution.

LACROSSE ICEMEN FAIL TO SETTLE DIFFICULTIES

La Crosse, Wis., April 9.—No agreement has yet been reached in the walk-out of the icemen's union and their employers. The men have asked for a substantial increase in wages, but local ice dealers refuse to treat with the men in a body and ask them to sign individual contracts with the alternative that they accept their contracts or quit work. The contracts expired April 1st, but the men have been working pending negotiations which have been carried on since that time. Union men declare they are locked out.

BRIDGE WAS OPENED FOR TRAVEL TODAY

Temporary Structure Across River at Milwaukee Street Practically Completed.

Street cars and pedestrians were allowed to cross the temporary structure across the river at Milwaukee street this morning. When it is considered that the bridge was destroyed less than a week ago and that work on its reconstruction was not started until Friday last, the completion of the work in such a short space of time is remarkable. The Rockford Interurban Company did the work.

Work of removing the wreckage of the buildings burned on Tuesday from the river has been let by the property owners to William Burgett, of the Cleary-White company who are erecting the railroad bridge and he will superintend the work with the same gang of workmen that have been employed by the Commercial club for several days past aiding in salvaging the safes.

Already there is considerable discussion as to the rebuilding of the structure destroyed. The Commercial club has sent out a circular letter to each of its members asking their opinion and a petition has been drawn up and is being liberally signed directed to the state railway commission asking them to take adverse action in the matter. Thus far none of the property owners whose buildings were destroyed have signified their intention in the matter.

Transcript of Judgment: A transcript of judgment from the circuit court of Jefferson county for $2,817.32 against W. C. Hall and Carrie B. Hall and James P. Gage and Frances Gage, in favor of W. H. Uglow, was filed in the clerk of the court's office today.

TROOPS AT BUFFALO TO PUT DOWN RIOTS
ATTENDING STRIKE

Street Car Traffic Is Tied up as Result Of Situation While Guardsmen Prevent Disorders.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Buffalo, April 9.—Two thousand national guardsmen summoned to put down the disorders arising from the street railway strike here were quartered in armories at daybreak. An additional 1,000 men were enroute. The International Railway made no effort to move their cars in the early morning hours, but expected to do so later in the day.

The first details of soldiers were sent out from the armory at eight o'clock. Squads patrolled every block along the car lines in the downtown section of the city. A special detail of mounted scouts of the 64th regiment was fired upon at the corner of Niagara and Tonawanda streets a few minutes later. The militia men charged the crowd. No one was injured.

An appeal to the supreme court for an order for military protection was made by the railway officials after frequent demands on the mayor and sheriff for such an order had been refused. The mayor maintained that the situation had not reached the acute stage, which made the presence of troops unnecessary.

Before issuing the order the court conferred with the mayor and chief of police. Mayor Fushmann insisted that there was no call for the troops, but Chief Regan admitted that the situation was beyond the control of his force of 300 men, who have been on duty almost continually since the strike was declared Sunday morning.

The strike leaders have sent a protest to Governor Sulzer against the ordering out of troops. A series of explosions aroused the people in the northern part of the city and in Tonawanda early this morning and the rumor spread that one of the International Railway trestles on the Niagara Falls line had been blown up. Men sent over the line for a distance of five miles north of Tonawanda reported no damage to the track or bridges and a explanation of the mysterious explosions was obtained.

Madison, Wis., April 9.—The new state capital was enveloped in clouds of dense black smoke for two hours this morning when the Plymouth Clothing store on east Main street was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $50,000. Paul Karbert was proprietor of the stock. The high pressure water system of the state capitol was drawn into service and the fire was confined to the clothing store.

TEXARKANA-SHREVEPORT RATE CASES ARE HEARD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Texarkana, Tex., April 9.—Great interest is being manifested here in the session tomorrow of the Interstate Commerce Commission when the Texarkana-Shreveport rate cases are to be heard. Texarkana claims that Shreveport should not be entitled to lower competition rates as there is no longer any traffic on the Red River. The principle involved is interesting to many other places as evidenced by the number of letters received by the Chamber of Commerce from other states inquiring into the details of the case.

ACQUITTED TEACHER WILL VISIT MOTHER

Prof. Oscar Olson of Minnesota University Found Not Guilty of Murder, Leaves for Former Home.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Accompanied by his wife and five year old son, Prof. Oscar Olson, who last night was acquitted of the murder of Clyde M. Darling, late today will leave for the home of his aged mother at Montevideo, Minn.

"I have wanted to see my mother for several days, but I could not have looked her in the face until I was a free man," said Prof. Olson in referring to his visit. I have made no plans for the future. I expect to rest several weeks before returning to my work."

Although Prof. Olson offered his resignation soon after the murder of Darling it has never been accepted by the board of regents of the University of Minnesota. It is said, however, that Prof. Olson is considering a position in Montevideo, the work of which is similar to that which he was doing in the interest of the University of Minnesota's farm school.

Mrs. Darling, widow of the man whom Prof. Olson shot March 5th, will depart for her old home at Rochester, Minn., tonight.

TWO GREAT FACTORS IN NATION'S GROWTH

Railroads and Agriculture Have Been Responsible for Prosperity Declares Speaker at Farm Conference.

Chicago, April 9.—Railroads and college men were the principal speakers in the second day's session of the first national conference on market and farm conditions which is being held here. B. T. Yoakum of New York, chairman of the board of investigations of the Frisco lines, speaking on the relations governing agriculture and railroads and their bearing on better marketing said in part:

Two Biggest Factors.
"Agriculture and transportation have laid the foundation which has made possible the greatest and most powerful nation of the world. They are the biggest factors in America's growth."

"Since 1905 our population has been increased 15 per cent. The value of farm products was 51 per cent more in 1912 than in 1905, while railway construction was 40 per cent less. There are now over 1,000 miles of new railway under construction and it would require the construction of 465,000 miles of additional railway to furnish the same chances for transportation facilities west of the Mississippi river that there are east of it on the same basis."

That great areas of rich country cannot grow as they should on one thousand miles of railway being built per annum, Mr. Yoakum said he believed in a readjustment of the tariff but he declared that "if congress should wipe out the entire tariff from every article that is brought into this country from every place in the world, this year's collection would only amount to $326,000,000 while the waste would fall upon the farmers of the nation and would mean an annual loss of over five times the entire amount collected by our revenue collectors. He gave figures which showed that $35,000,000 worth of produce, $250,000,000 of corn, stalks, rice, flax and other grains burned in the field, and there was over $1,500,000 which the farmers would receive if by co-operation they knew when and where to sell to best advantage, bringing the total loss up to $1,755,000.

BIG DRAINAGE CONGRESS IS OPENED AT ST. LOUIS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—Preparations for the entertainment of visitors and delegates to the third annual meeting of the National Drainage Congress have been completed, and St. Louis expects to entertain at least 3,000 visitors during the three days beginning tomorrow. Headquarters for the congress were opened at the Planters Hotel today, with Edmund T. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee, in charge.

The proceedings of the congress promise to take on added importance from the fact that one of the chief topics of discussion will be ways and means to prevent the recurrence of floods in the Ohio Valley and elsewhere. The United States Congress will be urged to create a National Drainage Commission, clothed with ample powers to remedy the cause of the trouble.

MARRIAGE IS VALID
BY ORAL CONTRACT

Supreme Court Decides That Oral Contract to Marry is Sufficient to Constitute Common-Law Marriage.

Madison, April 8.—The case of Elizabeth Becker, plaintiff and respondent vs. Charles Becker, defendant and appellant, both of Milwaukee county, was affirmed by the Supreme court today.

The Supreme court's decision in this case was sought to ascertain whether an alleged oral contract to marry was sufficiently binding to constitute a common-law marriage. Becker's counsel claimed the only solemnized marriage in Wisconsin is one law, and that a contract such as was entered into by the parties to this case was void. The woman's contention was that a common law marriage is one entered into without complying with the form provided by law for the celebration of marriages. She alleged they agreed to live together under an oral agreement and that he said he did not believe in a marriage ceremony. The lower court found that such an agreement had been made and that they were known as husband and wife, and that the defendant represented her as his wife many years, and upon these findings granted her a divorce. Becker insisted they were never married. The trial court awarded the woman suit money and alimony, against which judgment Becker took this appeal.

Nicholson stated today, "I wish to correct the unfortunate impression prevailing in the United States that I am afraid of a 90-foot yacht. I believe I could build a 90-foot yacht which would cross the Atlantic safely, but a 75 footer, which under present conditions is as large and as expensive as the 90 footer of twenty years ago, is a boat which prudence and reason dictate. I have great admiration for the ingenuity and cleverness of the American designers. I have already directed a shell built of the Challenger and have plans well under way. I expect to launch the Challenger in April 1914. I hope in case the American cup is returned to the British Isles the result will be the formation of a code governing all international yacht races."

Several cardinals, including Ramolla, Vives, Tupo, Da Lai, Martelli, Falconio, Biletti, and Agliardi, called at the Vatican this morning to inquire about the pope's health. They were not allowed to see the pontiff.

London, April 9.—"The luck will be with us this time. The Challenger is the four-leaf clover Shamrock will be the New York Yacht Club will defend the American cup for the thirteenth time," said Charles E. Nicholson today. Nicholson is to design the Lipton yacht which will seek to win back for the British the American cup. This will be Nicholson's first connection with the contest of the American cup. His yacht at Gostwick was used originally when the Lipton yacht was under repairs.

Nicholson stated today, "I wish to correct the unfortunate impression prevailing in the United States that I am afraid of a 90-foot yacht. I believe I could build a 90-foot yacht which would cross the Atlantic safely, but a 75 footer, which under present conditions is as large and as expensive as the 90 footer of twenty years ago, is a boat which prudence and reason dictate. CONDITION OF POPE
REPORTED IMPROVED

PHYSICIAN INSISTS THAT ALTHOUGH WEAKENED BY RELAPSE HIS HOLINESS IS SLIGHTLY BETTER.

Rumors From Other Quarters State That Pontiff is Suffering From Other Complications—Causes Anxiety.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome, April 9.—The condition of the Pope was much improved today. Prof. Marchiafava, the Vatican physician visited the Pope for over an hour this morning and found his condition greatly relieved. His temperature was only slightly above normal, but he was still suffering great depression and weakness.

Prof. Marchiafava's examination of the Pope this morning was of the most minute character. He declared afterwards that there was a noticeable improvement in the Pope's condition, but still felt the relapse suffered yesterday. He did not seem to be on the decline however.

Three thousand children gathered in the court this morning on the Piazza di San Pietro in front of and under the open windows of the Pope's apartments and prayed for his recovery. The Pope's condition is still a matter of anxiety. When he was awakened he appeared to be too weak to take much notice of those around him. He smiled, however, when he was visited by his sisters and his nieces, who sat quietly in the room for some time without disturbing him.

The official Vatican newspaper, the Osservatore Romano, says in its evening edition today: "We are glad to be able to give the assurance that after his relapse on Monday evening the condition of the Pope is constantly and notably improving." The temperature of the Pope rose slightly at three o'clock this afternoon, reaching 99 degrees.

From Other Reports.
While official reports state that the amelioration in the condition of the Pope continues it is reported in other quarters that the pontiff is suffering from difficulties of respiration, thirst and prostration.

Everything is being prepared at the Vatican to give the pope a long period of rest. All pilgrimages have been suspended this month and the American pilgrimage which left New York on April 5, under the direction of Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Toledo, will not be received by his Holiness.

Several cardinals, including Ramolla, Vives, Tupo, Da Lai, Martelli, Falconio, Biletti, and Agliardi, called at the Vatican this morning to inquire about the pope's health. They were not allowed to see the pontiff.

The callers were informed by Cardinal Merry del Val that an improvement had taken place in the pope's condition and that there was no real cause for alarm.

A thunder storm, accompanied by a heavy fall of hail, disturbed the pope this morning. His nervous system has become very sensitive since the beginning of his illness. Prof. Marchiafava assured the Associated Press this morning that his Holiness is suffering only from a relapse of influenza which might like all relapses cause a certain amount of anxiety, owing to the exalted position of the patient and his great age.

"The report as to the pope's being acutely affected with nephritis or inflammation of the kidneys," said the professor, "is absolutely unfounded."

Pontiff Needs Rest.
"What the pontiff needs above all is rest," continued the physician, "and the 24 hours he has spent in bed completely isolated from affairs has already produced a salutary effect. All the symptoms of a dangerous character, which have been mentioned in unauthorized reports are either imaginary or grossly exaggerated. The present condition of the pope excludes any danger unless complications should intervene."

WILSON EMPHASIZES NEW TARIFF NEEDS IN FIRST MESSAGE

Revision in Duties First Demanded. He Says, To Meet Altered Conditions in Nation's Economic Life.

President Wilson demands tariff revision first in his initial message to congress which he delivered in person yesterday. Pertinent passages are given below:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives:
"I have called the congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible, and in order also that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves.

"It is clear to the whole country that the tariff duties must be altered. They must be changed to meet the radical alteration in the conditions of our economic life which the country has witnessed within the last generation.

"While the whole face and method of our industrial and commercial life were being changed beyond recognition, the tariff schedules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstances of our industrial development was what it is today.

"Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

"We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day—very far, indeed, from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based.

"We long ago passed beyond the modest notion of 'protecting' the industries of the country, and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the government.

"For a long time—a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it—we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves thought that they needed in order to maintain their exclusive market as against the rest of the world.

"Conspicuously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest forms of combination to organize a monopoly; until at last nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement.

"Only new principles of action will save us from a final hard crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

"It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better works, and merchants than any in the world.

"Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably cannot, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

"It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up among us by long process and at our own invitation.

"It does not alter a thing to upset it and break it and deprive it of a chance to break. It destroys it.
"We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion.

"We must build up trade, especially foreign trade. We need the outlet and the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before.

"We must build up industry as well, and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down.

"In dealing with the tariff and method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item.

"To some not accustomed to the excitement and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may seem hasty and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies.

"It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is chargeable against us we shall be fortunate.

"We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. Our responsibility should be met and our methods should be thorough, as thorough as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beguiled.

"We are to deal with the facts of our own day, with the facts of no other and to make laws which square with those facts.

"It is best, indeed it is necessary to begin with the tariff. I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our energies from that clearly defined duty.

"At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws; but just now I refrain.

"For the present I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing—the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Janesville, Wis., April 8, 1913.
Editor Gazette:

As there is about to be launched a booster club, and its slogan to be "Twenty-Five Thousand," I thought perhaps a few words from just a common every day workman might be all right, especially just before the large mass meeting which will take place in the Myers Opera House on the evening of April 15th.

In the first place I will say that I am glad to see the interest that is being taken in this new venture. I am glad to hear the people talking about it and I sincerely hope that when the night of April 15th comes that the opera house will be packed from pit to dome. Every working man should make it a point to be present, not only to be present, but to help enroll his name as a member and help boost the more factories we get the more chance there will be for employment and the more factories and more people the more will our little homes be worth. This city has been at a standstill for a long time and "there is a reason."

The only reason for the present conditions is because we have not such an organization, a get-together, bunch—all working harmoniously. Just as soon as a factory wants to locate here we should go after it hammer and tong and not let up until we have got it. Let us all show the spirit of 1776, or the same spirit as we would in case our country was in danger of an enemy. Let us work shoulder to shoulder. Put all petty differences aside and go after something we want. Do not let other towns get ahead of us. Let us show them that we are alive and going.

When a factory wants to come to our city let us call a mass meeting, let us state what they want, appoint a committee, and get what they want. Only a short time ago, I understand, we had an opportunity to get a factory—a linen factory. Our sister city, Beloit, landed the prize. I understand, from common hearsay, that all they wanted was a site. Now, then, if that is all they wanted, it stands to reason that something is radically wrong or more plainly speaking, there must be a nigger in the fence somewhere. I venture to make the prediction that had we a booster's club as proposed, a small proposition like that would have been granted and we would today have the linen factory which Beloit today has and employing several hundred hands. A committee could have secured enough money in forty-eight hours time to land that prize.

I have heard it said, not once, but a hundred times, that we have among us very prominent men who are interested in concerns here that do not want any more factories, for the reason that they might have to pay more wages. I have heard it repeated again and again that that was the reason of our failure in not securing the linen factory; also the iron factory. As to the accuracy of the statement I have no proof, but indications very much look as if that is the case.

Therefore I think a "Twenty-Five Thousand" club is certainly a necessity. The dues, per member, could be so regulated that working men with small means could belong as well as the well-to-do, thereby getting the representation of the majority. The working man is as much interested as anyone to see his city forge ahead.

Not only factory propositions could be brought before this club, but a thousand other matters which would materially aid the city. For instance, we have about twenty-five or thirty cigar makers in the city, when we ought to have a hundred or more. We certainly manufacture as good cigars as anywhere. That is a proposition worth looking after. Just think of the thousands of dollars that goes out town in that way, never to return.

Another proposition that would not be a bad scheme would be to try and have a telegraph and telephone poles removed from the business part of the city and the wires put underground. The consent could probably be gotten from property owners to have the cross wires of the street railway attached to the buildings.

We ought to have the same street car service that they have in Beloit, as long as it all belongs to the same corporation. Our present street cars are a disgrace, even if they are an improvement over those we had a few years ago. All these matters could be agitated as side issues, when we have no factories pending.

One of the things that our city is in sore need of is a public park and baseball grounds, a park similar to Harlem Park at Rockford. It would not be necessary to start on such a large scale. I am satisfied that enough stock could be sold to give Janesville one of the nicest public parks in the state. This park proposition is something that should be looked into at once, for it takes two or three years to get it in good running order. Think of the number of people that would attend from miles around, thereby advertising our city as a good place to live.

And, now for the finish. Let us all work together. Let us convert those people that have been against getting factories. Let us show them where they have been wrong and likely they will become the most enthusiastic and the best donors when it comes to passing around the hat. Let us all be on hand on the night of April 15th at the Myers Opera House and help all we can to make this a booster's meeting.

P. S. I would like to hear others express their opinion through the paper.

A. F. KNUTH.

Editor's Note:

It is understood the Commercial club have in preparation a signed statement of the "Linen Mills" proposition to show the exact status of affairs and the reasons for their declining upon Beloit as a location.

A site was offered by the Commercial club and the Linen Mills officials did not request any other bonus or gift. There are but a few hands employed in the mills at the present time.

PICKED UP BLAZING STOVE AND CARRIED IT OUTSIDE

Mrs. Perry J. Van Pool, 38 South Ringold Street Shows Presence Of Mind When Home Is Endangered.

Unusual coolness and presence of mind was shown by Mrs. Perry J. Van Pool, 38 South Ringold Street yesterday afternoon, when she picked up a blazing gasoline stove that threatened to set the home afire and carried it out to the walk although her hands were severely burned in doing so. Not daunted by this she proceeded to carry pails of water and extinguish the fire that was communicated to the wooden sidewalk.

An alarm was sent in from box 35, corner of Ruger avenue and Forest Park Boulevard at about 4:45 o'clock and the department promptly responded. The west side apparatus climbed the steep Court Street Hill as it had to cross by that bridge. The fire was practically out when they arrived.

BELLIGERENT DISPOSITION COSTS POSSESSOR DEARLY

Merle Stamper, Colored, Young Man, Gets Twenty-five Days' Term In The County Jail.

Fighting provillities, and the possession of a belligerent disposition cost Merle Stamper dearly this morning. On his pleading guilty to a charge of intoxication before Judge Fifield he was sentenced to ten days in the county jail and five dollars fine or fifteen days additional. Stamper was arrested last night at a saloon on North Main street, and made a violent resistance to arrest. He tried hard to see who was assisting the policemen, evidently with a desire to wreak vengeance later, but the officer held him fast and denied him that satisfaction.

Michael Murray, who has spent the last three or four nights in the police station, had the temerity to become intoxicated last evening. He was not able to pay a fine of $2 and costs and was sent to jail for five days in spite of his pleas that sentence be suspended. He is a stranger and well along in years.

George Optal, who has succeeded in keeping out of court for many months, re-appeared today, made his usual plea, and was assigned to ten days in jail for the want of a fine of $5 and costs.

FLOODS INEVITABLE SAYS AN AUTHORITY ON THIS SUBJECT

No Human Agency Can Prevent Repetition of Disasters in Ohio and Indiana.

The tremendous disaster to human life and property in the Ohio and Indiana region could not have been prevented by any human agency, according to Mr. O. Leighton, chief hydrographer of the United States geological survey at Washington, one of the most eminent authorities of the country on everything appertaining to the nation's water resources.

Appalling as has been the catastrophe in the Ohio and Indiana region, it is not less appalling, and in some respects it is even more so, to contemplate that there is no adequate means to prevent the recurrence of such catastrophes in the future. Yet it is the judgment of Mr. Leighton, who is amply qualified to speak, that this is the case.

"No work that could have been built by the hand of man could have prevented it," said Mr. Leighton this morning, when interrogated concerning the flood in the Ohio-Indiana country.

"It is one of those things that no human agency could withstand.

Worse Than Earthquake.
"Old Noah himself could not have dealt with a situation like this. It could not have been overcome any more than the San Francisco earthquake. It was simply a deluge of water of unprecedented proportions and no reservoir system that has ever been contemplated in that region could have afforded protection against it. It was as if some vast power had moved over the states of Ohio and Indiana and turned loose a great sprinkling pot. The water fall exceeded all known records."

Such deluges as this, Mr. Leighton says, comes once in 100 or 200 years. Several years ago he worked out a comprehensive plan for a system of storage reservoirs at the headwaters of the rivers in the Ohio basin. These were designed to control floods. They have received much attention from engineers and the Pittsburgh authorities engaged in devising some methods for preventing the disastrous recurring floods in that district have approved Mr. Leighton's plans.

"But the plans with respect to storage reservoirs which I worked out," said Mr. Leighton when asked about them, "were not designed to deal with a situation like this. They were not intended to cope with such a deluge of water as this.

Can Only Repair Damage.
"So far as I can see," added Mr. Leighton, "there is nothing for us to do with respect to a situation like this but simply to repair the damage as best we can and then stand by and take our medicine knowing that sooner or later we may expect the same thing again, but hoping that it will not come within the life of our generation."

would not pay—I do not speak now of the loss of life, but from the property side of it to undertake to construct a system of reservoirs and levees such as would cope with such a deluge and then to undertake to subject ourselves to the inconvenience and cost of maintaining it for the next hundred years or while waiting for this thing to happen again."

At the same time, Mr. Leighton believes much good could be accomplished by such a storage system as would tend to protect the Ohio valley region, as well as other districts, against floods of ordinary sorts which may be expected at frequent intervals.

Mr. Leighton figures on a property loss in the present floods that may reach a quarter billion or more. "I see it estimated that the railroad loss in the floods is $25,000," said he. "I do not know that this figure is correct. But if it is, that means the whole property loss is about ten times that sum. Our data on flood losses show that the railroad loss is as a rule about 10 per cent. of the total property loss.

As showing the effect of the deluge of water that poured down from the clouds on the Ohio region, Mr. Leighton pointed out that the Potomac basin above Washington is five times as large as the Miami basin above Dayton. Yet the Potomac has a capacity of carrying without overflow ten times as much water as the Miami. What would overflow the country there would not cause a flood in a more mountainous region, such as the basin of the Potomac above Washington.

Nick Collop, southpaw pitcher picked up from the Appalachian League by the Cleveland Naps, promises to be one of the real comedians of the American League. Germany Schaefer and Nick Altrock, the famous comedians of the Washington Nationals, will have nothing on him, if those who have seen him are to be believed. One of his favorite tricks is to warm up a pitcher, using a right-hand catcher's glove on his left hand to catch the ball and flipping it off to make the throw-back. His work on the coaching lines is weird and convulsing.

President W. E. Essick and Manager Ed. Smith of the Grand Rapids club of the Central League both are pitchers. The question which arises is whether or not Manager Smith can remove President Essick from the box when that dignitary wabbles, and if, being peeved by such a proceeding, President Essick can release Manager Smith.

BASEBALL SEASON TO OPEN THURSDAY

National and American League Scores Will Be Received and Posted Daily at the Gazette Office.

At last the baseball season has arrived. Although ushered in with cloudy skies and cool breezes, it is safe to predict that there will be hundreds and thousands of ardent fans who will brave the elements to attend the opening games in the American and National leagues tomorrow. Janesville fans who have been following the line of dope which has been given out in the newspapers since the beginning of the training season will be interested to know that the Gazette will furnish the big league scores daily, with returns every five minutes after the game have started. The scores will be posted on the bulletin board in the Gazette window and also at several other convenient places about town. Arrangements have been made to secure the results by innings by telegraph accurately and promptly. Watch the Gazette score board for the earliest and most reliable scores.

Neither of the Chicago teams, each of which possesses equal admirers in Janesville, will open the season on the home grounds. Johnny Evers' men will meet the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Louis, while Comiskey's warriors will battle at Cleveland.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Pitcher Pat Rogan is showing some great benders with the Brooklyn Superbas this spring. Big league scouts are taking a slant at Pitcher Robinson, the Amherst College classy twirler. Sam Crawford, of the Detroit Tigers, has been clouting the ball at a terrific clip during the spring practice games. "Dummi" Taylor, the ex-Giant hurler who pitched for Montreal last season, has signed with the Montgomery Club of the Southern League. The greatest exhibition game this spring was the 10-inning contest in which the Venice (Calif.) team defeated the White Sox 2 to 1. The City of Dubuque, Iowa, will own the baseball grounds on which Clarence Rowland's Three-I Leaguers will play their games this season. The Mink League has been disbanded and most of the players in the defunct organization have caught on with teams in the Nebraska League. May 17 will be "Frank Chance Day" in Chicago. The date selected is the first Saturday game between the Peerless Leader's New Yorks and the White Sox. Clark Griffith's Washington Nationals are playing in midseason form and look good enough to give the Red Sox and the Athletics a real battle after April 10. New York critics predict that Pitcher Jeff Tateau will supplant both Christy Mathewson and Rube Marquard as the mainstay of the Giants this season. It is said that Pitcher Cullon, Catcher Bessler, Outfielder Leibold and Infielder Bates are the only re-latest things in college baseball. Coach Branch Rickey of the University of Michigan has evolved the unique stunt of tying the batters' wrists to their belts with short lengths of rope, so that they cannot try to bunt the high ones, a practice against which Rickey is strongly set. The players do not take at all kindly to the practice.

It is not everyone who is familiar with the peculiarities of big league baseball. When Manager McGraw of the New York Giants asked the clerk of a small Tennessee hotel for conveyances to take his squad to the ball park one morning, the clerk ordered two carryalls, each having seats for five men. He figured that they should be enough for any baseball nine, with an extra seat for the manager. He did not know that the modern big league baseball club numbers around forty players in the spring time.

The greatest all-around sprinter in the country today is said to be Charley Rice of the Powder Point (Mass.) school. He is touted as promising to become a second edition of Ralph Craig, the marvelous Michigan sprinter. He has twice run the 220-yard dash in 21 3-5 seconds.

cruits who will stick with the Cleveland Naps.

Manager Connie Mack has announced that he will get along without scouts in the future and will devote his attention to trying out school boys and sand-lot "phenoms" instead of paying fancy prices for minor league stars.

Five of the six cities in the Central League, Dayton, Springfield, Terre Haute, Fort Wayne and Evansville, suffered great damage through the recent floods in Indiana and Ohio. It is doubtful whether the league will be able to open the 1913 season on April 22, the scheduled time.

WITH THE BOXERS.

Frank Mantell, the Pawtucket middleweight, has signed to box Pat O'Keefe in London, England, April 14.

Eddie McGoorty has called off his bout with Jimmy Clabby which was scheduled for Denver, April 10. New York promoters are trying to sign Luther McCarty and Gunboat Smith for a clash to take place early in May.

The date of the Harlem Tommy Murphy-Ad Wiegast bout in California, has been advanced to April 19 in place of the 26th of the month.

MOOSE POLO TEAM TO PLAY KENOSHA

Game With Crack Kenosha Team for Tomorrow Night At Rink.

Late this afternoon it was definitely decided that the Moose polo team would meet the Kenosha polo team here tomorrow night. The polo players have been inactive since their defeat in the last Racine game and are eager to meet the Kenosha team. While Janesville has defeated this team in every contest, the score of the last game was one to nothing and Janesville won out after a hard battle. Kenosha's lineup has been considerably strengthened and with the addition of Mooreman, who is considered the best half back in the league, the game will be close as, both contesting teams are evenly matched.

This game will probably close the season as the rink will close within a short time and a large crowd is expected out to see the polo team in their final game.

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN IN HARNESS RACING

Janesville Park Association Plan For Big Events Here During Coming Summer.

With the organization of the Wisconsin Grand Circuit, with Janesville the first city to enjoy its delights, harness racing throughout southern Wisconsin has been given a big impetus. At a meeting of the directors of the Janesville Park Association held Tuesday evening at the Putnam store on South Main street it was decided to hold a special race meeting on July 4th. Originally this had been planned as one of the features of the Home Coming week but since this has been postponed indefinitely, the directors decided to follow out the original plans and stage the meet.

The opening events at the park with the Decoration Day races, the nature of which has not yet been determined and many include motor-cycle and auto races as well as several heats between local horses. Then comes the Fourth of July program at which some of the speedy nags in the southern part of the state will doubtless compete as it is expected to hang up good sized purses. It is also expected that there will be several strings of fast horses training here during the early summer months and this will add to the entry list.

The big meeting will be the opening of the Wisconsin Grand Circuit meet, August 12th, 13th and 14th. The entry list for these races will include the following events.

Pacing—2:25 class, $400.
Pacing—2:18 class, $400.
Pacing stake—2:13 class purse not decided.

Pacing Free-for-all, $400.
Trotting classes—2:30 trot, $400.
Trotting classes—2:24 stake purse not decided.

Trotting classes—2:30 trot, $400.
Trotting classes—2:16 trot, $400.
Two-year-old trot—$200.

After leaving Janesville the horses will go to Evansville, for the Rock County Fair week, of August 19th, 20th, 21st and 22nd. Back to Beloit for the Beloit fair on August 26, 27, 28 and 29. Part of the string will doubtless go to Portage, which holds its fair the same week. The Jefferson fair comes the next week in September 2, 3, 4 and 5. Then to Monroe, the same week as the State Fair September 9, 10, 11 and 12. Madison follows September 16, 17, 18 and 19. This completes the circuit as arranged.

During the week of the state convention of the United Commercial Travelers, the grounds have been donated to them for their use and their entertainment committee will have ball games and other athletic sports there.

The track is in excellent shape already and with the use of the early spring training and frequent dragging, should be one of the fastest in southern Wisconsin by July Fourth.

J. C. Nichols, was named as chairman of the track committee by the directors last evening. The work of Secretary Putnam in arranging for Janesville's part in the organization of the Wisconsin Grand Circuit, brings the local track into equal prominence with all the smaller tracks of the state. The fact that the local organization has a secretary, that is thoroughly conversant with the handling of race meets and is known to leading horsemen all over the country is also a great aid to securing first class entries for the meets to be held here.

Directors of the local organization are C. S. Putnam, J. C. Nichols, John Sheridan, Edw. Amerpohl, John Souman, Harry Nowlan and Frank Croak. Committees appointed at last evening's meeting were as follows: Speed C. S. Putnam; track, J. C. Nichols; grounds, J. Sheridan, Putnam and Amerpohl; finance, Edw. Amerpohl; Croak and Putnam; protection, Souman, Amerpohl and Nichols; publicity, Nowlan, Amerpohl and Putnam; transportation, Croak, Sheridan and Souman.

HEMMING IS CHOSEN BASKETBALL CAPTAIN

Player Who Has Held Position of Center on High School Team for Two Years Elected to Honor.

At a special meeting of the champion basketball squad this morning during the opening exercises, occurred the electing of a captain for next year. Victor Hemming, for two years center on the local five, was chosen to this position by an unanimous vote. He is a good man for the position, and it is sure that he will lead next year's team to the state tournament at Appleton, if possible. During the year just passed in basketball, he was the highest scorer in the state for a high school player, he having secured 112 baskets in 18 games. This is a remarkable record to hold. His marked improvement this year over that of previous years is shown very much and he is expected to even improve more next year than he did this season. The men who will be back next season to aid Hemming in the making of a team will be, Atwood, all-state forward this year, Dalton, forward, L. Stewart, forward or guard, and possibly Ryan, a guard and center. Hemming hopes for a very successful season next year with such support as the team this year received.

Cancel Saturday's Game. Prof. Buell stated this morning that the local high school championship basketball five would not play any more games this season. This will cancel the game scheduled to be played at the rink for this week Saturday. Mr. Buell also stated that the five should not have played the game last week, without seeing him, and so consequently the favorites of the high school will not be seen in action any more this year. They have won eighteen straight games this season, and their record is far superior to any other high school five in this section of the country. It is possible that a track team might be organized at the high school, but unless the material shows up within due time, the be dropped, unless a baseball team be organized which is a popular feeling among the students.

THE MESSAGE.

President Wilson read his message to congress yesterday. This is an innovation in Washington diplomatic circles, and while John Sharp Williams insists in snatches of royalty, not in accordance with true democracy, Williams may be prejudiced. It is really suggestive of the college president addressing a faculty meeting at the opening of a semester. It is, barely possible that Wilson has so long been in the habit of handling matters this way he can not break himself of the habit. It is alarming for the prosperity of democracy that the comments, unfavorable in nature, of his action, come from his own party leaders. This perhaps substantiates Senator Sherman's of Illinois' version of the democratic victory last fall, that it was a chasm, not an avalanche, that swept them into power.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says: "It is hard to see what Mr. Wilson expected to gain by personally appearing in a rather schoolmastering way before a congress already growing restive under a sense of executive infringement. But it is not hard to see that Mr. Wilson has gratuitously gone a bit out of his way to invite trouble and challenge the recalcitrancy."

"Possibly Mr. Wilson may prove able to bend congress to obedience. But congress is extremely touchy on points of prerogative, and one's impression is that Mr. Wilson's disposition to drive will be less effective than the matchless tact and persuasiveness of Mr. McKinley."

"As for the substance of the message, it was about what was expected. The tariff must come first, and other bridges will be crossed when arrived at. Mr. Wilson's doctrinaire leaning to free trade peeps out as an ideal, but his practical sense comes to the rescue when he says:

"It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste, or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up amongst us by long process and at our own invitation."

"Mr. Wilson will, we take it, honestly endeavor to satisfy the popular craving for change, without incurring the liabilities of fulfillment of republican campaign predictions of democratic disaster."

"Success to him. With business well on the safe and sane side and prosperity again with us, he starts with much in his favor."

THE LIQUOR ZONE.

Mayor Fathers and Councilmen Cummings and Millmore, by their action in creating a liquor zone, seven blocks long and two blocks wide, in the heart of the retail business district, have placed the retail liquor business on a strictly business basis, the same as any other business. There will be no more slipping away to the outskirts for a drink at some establishment that must of necessity violate the laws and ordinances in order to eke out an existence. In reducing the total number of licenses from fifty-three to forty, another step in this same direction has been taken, and with forty liquor shops in the city the competition will not be so keen and better establishments can be conducted by the proprietors. It is a wise move which has the endorsement of all classes of citizens, and while it will work a hardship on some who lose their locations, still it is in the interest of the general public and deserves commendation and support. Sufficient time has been given those who hold licenses outside the zone created, to make other arrangements for the future, and taking it all in all it will raise the standard of the retail shops that will be granted new licenses next July.

THE CORN CONTEST.

Entries for the Gazette corn contest continue to arrive by every mail. The interest displayed in this contest shows that the Gazette was not wrong in believing that the boys on the farm were interested in farm work and needed only a little encouragement to demonstrate it. The contest is open to every boy sixteen or under in Rock county and closes for entrance May 5th. There is plenty of time yet to enter and many will doubtless avail themselves of the opportunity offered.

FOOSTERS' PLANS.

"Twenty-five Thousand or Bust!" That is the war cry from now on. Next Tuesday night at the Myers theatre, the club of boosters is to be organized. It is a grand undertaking and one in which every citizen should be interested in. No one can fail to miss the meeting which is open to all and enthusiasm should be shown in the project to make Janesville bigger and better.

One of the English suffragists in prison is trying to catch pneumonia. But if they are really in search of hardship, why don't they go on a talk strike?

A man recently released from the federal prison at Leavenworth departed immediately for Pittsburgh. Probably he wants to return to a normal way of living gradually.

With the cost of living so high in this country, it is hard for Americans to work up a sympathetic feeling for those English suffragists who refuse to be fed gratis.

The customs court has decided that a soured herring is a herring. Which should convince all wives that their soured husbands are still men.

This may be an era of pessimism, but at the present season of the year everybody has the same old confidence in the seed catalogues.

The pet pig of the New York police force has been disposed of. Nothing must be permitted to remain in the department that can squeal.

At least those Kansas men who will eat raw eggs for two years for the benefit of the doctors will know whether they are fresh or not.

The old idea that there is no money in the literature business is exploded. Walter H. Page has accepted the London ambassadorship.

Eighty-four cases of divorce up in the Chicago courts last Friday. No wonder Reno "contemplates getting out of the business."

This is going to be a hard season for the chautauqua circles. Congress will be in session all summer.

Most of us don't care now how March went out. It is satisfaction enough to know that it did go out.

New England didn't get a cabinet place. But probably it will get the summer capital.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE AVERAGE MAN.

The standard of any nation is maintained by the average of its citizenship. The exceptional man gets the notices in the newspapers and biographical dictionaries, but the average man does the work of the world and upholds the character of civilization.

The average man is the substantial part of the structure of the state, while the exceptional man constitutes the ornaments and trimmings.

The average man fights the battles, the exceptional man wears the shoulder straps. The average man makes the wealth, the exceptional man appropriates it. The average man furnishes the waters in the river of humanity, the exceptional man is the wave that gleams for a moment on its surface.

A civilization can only go forward as the average of humanity goes forward. When the few advance at the expense of the many the trend of the whole body is downward.

When the character, intelligence, prosperity and morality of the common people are high, the statesmanship, literature, art and learning of the exceptional men will be high, just as the waves on a river that is bank full are more plentiful and more beautiful than those of a river dried at its springs.

The solid, substantial citizen, who meets his obligations, fulfills his duties of citizenship, does his work and is a good husband and father, is the very cornerstone of all that is wholesome in our civilization.

The term man is here used generically and includes woman, for the high average of womanhood is quite as important to society as that of manhood. It may not be in our power to be exceptional men or women, but it is entirely within our power to help keep the average high.

We are required only to make good with the talents given us.

By being exemplary average human beings we may be rendering a more important service to mankind than by glittering our little instant on the crest of the wave.

It is from the sea level and not the top of the wave that all heights and depths are reckoned.

There are plenty to offer tributes to the exceptional man, but why not a tribute to the average man who makes the other possible?

There are plenty to offer tributes to the exceptional man, but why not a tribute to the average man who makes the other possible?

You see, I merely planted them and let it go at that. I didn't cultivate the ground or hoe my garden plot. I didn't nurse those seeds along for I forsook them, flat. I merely raised a crop of weeds, of weeds profuse and fat.

Thus in life, a man may be prepared for gallant deeds. The seed of genius in him sown, the richest of all seeds.

But if it is not nursed along accordingly to its needs, it will, uncultivated, bring forth nothing much but weeds.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.
 A man never appreciated how science and invention are marching onward until a rich uncle dies and leaves him a glue factory. It seems as though the opportunities for investment are limitless. The master brains of this country are working while we of the sordid, sombre hue are asleep. They are inventing left-handed money wrenches, patent can openers that can also be used as an automobile jack and folded up and carried in the vest pocket; nonbreakable window glass, noiseless automobile horns and countless other things.

Lem Higgins says he nearly died from strangulation once when he was a young man, but the governor's pardon arrived just in time.

There will never be a shortage in the crop of funny looking derbies. There are still a few old-fashioned fellows who try to make both ends meet.

When a defeated candidate demands a recount he generally finds that he is wiser off than he thought he was.

A woman cares more about the price of lace insertion than she does about the price of beefsteak or coal.

Automobile Bromides.
 "I could go up this hill on high if I wanted to, but I live, to save my engine."

"I had fourteen people in this car one day last summer and she walked right off with them."

"See her take the corners without a bit of additional juice. Ain't it immense?"

"She rides just like an old rocking chair and as for speed, well! When I let her out I ain't in the city limits long enough to have anybody notice me violating the speed law."

"Haven't touched the engine since last summer."

"I'd like to have you along some time when she is running right."

WISCONSIN MISSION CONVENTION OPENED

ALL PARTS OF THE STATE ARE WELL REPRESENTED AT MEETING HERE.

ADDRESS ON EMIGRANT

Mrs. R. B. Guild to Give Illustrated Talk This Evening on "Our Latest Americans."

With an attendance of about seventy delegates, representing all parts of the state, the Wisconsin Branch of the Women's Board of Missions of the Interior yesterday afternoon opened its thirty-eighth annual meeting in this city. From thirty to forty more delegates are expected to arrive today to attend the thirtieth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Home Missionary Union, the sessions of which open this evening and continue through tomorrow afternoon.

The principal feature of the program this evening will be an illustrated lecture by Mrs. R. B. Guild of Topeka, Kansas, president of the Women's Home Missionary Federation, on "Our Latest Americans." The subject of the lecture will be the immigration question. The lantern slides to be used were made from photographs made by Mr. Guild at Ellis Island, and were hand-colored by Mrs. Guild. Her talk will be of great interest to children and young people as well as their elders. The Rev. L. H. Keller of Madison, superintendent of the Congregational Association of Wisconsin, will speak on "Our State Work," and there will be two musical numbers—a quartet selection, "In Heavenly Love Abiding," and a vocal solo, "My Soul Longeth," by William Miller. The Rev. Dr. Beaton will deliver a devotional service preceding the program, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The sessions of the Wisconsin Branch of the Women's Board of Missions of the Interior, which confines its efforts to the support of foreign missions, were opened with devotions at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. J. A. Ingersoll of this city leading the service. Reports were made by the district secretaries of the Winnebago, Superior, Northeastern, Milwaukee, Lemonweir, La Crosse, and Beloit conventions. Miss Anna Keop of Beloit read a paper on "Our Part in the Work," and Mrs. E. Hurlbut of Evanston, Ill., gave an address on "The Auxiliary Part." Miss M. Broden made a report of the Children's Work. Mrs. F. Hopkins of Madison spoke on "The Wee Folks' Band."

After a brief intermission the program was continued at 4:15 o'clock. The remainder being devoted to the child problem. Miss Borden led the discussion. Miss Emily Hartwell of Fochow, China, a missionary of several years' experience, spoke on "The Children of China." Mrs. Guild of Topeka on "The Little New Americans." Miss Annie L. Howe of Kobe, Japan, gave a talk on the children of that country.

The delegates, missionaries, visitors and ladies of the church were entertained at supper in the church dining room as the guests of the Laon Band at six o'clock.

Last evening's meeting was opened at 7:30 o'clock with a devotional service conducted by the Rev. W. A. Leighton of Milton. Miss Emily S. Hartwell gave an address on "The Chinese Wedding—Present Conditions and Needs in Fochow," and Miss Annie L. Howe on "The Glory Kindergarten." A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. A. J. Wilcox, and the quartet sang a selection.

The Congregational women of Wisconsin contributed more than nine thousand dollars for home missions last year, according to the report of the secretary of the state branch, Mrs. D. A. Lewis. This announcement was received with hearty applause. Mrs. W. C. Rowse, treasurer of the branch, also presented a report. Miss E. Hartwell spoke on the missions and mission schools and their work at Ingkhe and Fochow, and her address was heard with much interest.

Miss Anna E. Sewell gave a talk on "The United Pages." Miss S. A. Jeffris led a discussion on "Young People's Work." "Intercession for Home Workers" was the topic of Miss L. Walker. The morning service was opened with prayer by Mrs. J. Wilcox of Lake Geneva.

SENSATION CREATED BY BOLD PEDESTRIAN

Man Starts to Cross Milwaukee Street Bridge, Mysteriously Disappeared Hence Excitement.

What evidently no more than the attempt of a bold pedestrian to cross the Milwaukee Street bridge in spite of being forbidden to do so resulted in the rumor of a suicide by drowning being circulated through the city late last night. Councilman R. M. Cummings who was seated in a window at the Lakota club rooms saw a man make his way out upon the bridge along the north railing and let himself down through one of the holes. He did not reappear and Mr. Cummings fearing that some accident might have befallen the man, descended to the street and asked George Croft, the policeman stationed at the end of the bridge if he had noticed what became of him. He, too, had seen him, but believed that the stranger was one of the telephone company employees who had gone below for an inspection and paid no further attention to him.

Inquiries made at the telephone companies disclosed the fact that none of their men had been sent beneath the bridge, but one of them, accompanied by other men was sent down later, and with their flashlights made a search for the man who disappeared. It is believed that he simply chose to walk across the river on the scaffolding under the bridge and perhaps took some delight in the excitement he caused.

Importance of Play. To the decree that mankind shall work for its daily bread, is added the decree that mankind shall play, for the salvation of both its body and soul.

A decree so inwrought in the very constitution of man that there is no greater danger to mankind, especially in its state of childhood, than the prevention or misdirection of play.—Richard Watson Gilder.

READY FOR MEETING TO ORGANIZE CLUB TO BOOM THE CITY

Committee in Charge of "Twenty-five Thousand Club" Held Important Session Last Night.

At a meeting of the members of the committee named by Mayor Fathers to make arrangements for the organization of the "Twenty-five Thousand Club," held last evening, an emblem was selected for the organization and the membership fees were finally placed at one dollar. Other arrangements were also discussed for the monster mass meeting which will be held at the Myers theatre next Tuesday evening, April 15, at which the organization will be given definite form.

The round button which will be given to the members of the club as soon as they pay their fees, is of handsome design with a background of red enamel, figures in blue and gold-plated. Orders will be placed at once for a large number of these badges as it is anticipated that there will be an extraordinary demand.

Another meeting of the committee will be held Friday evening at which time a definite program for the mass meeting will be secured. It is proposed to have a number of prominent citizens on the platform to give addresses and urge the formation of this monster booster project. It only remains with the citizens to turn out in full force and give their support to the movement. "We are confident that Janesville will be stirred as never before," said one of the committee today.

"The interest is growing rapidly and we look for a rousing time next Tuesday night."

The committee who is working on the program and general arrangements is composed of Frank Croak, chairman, M. P. Richardson, S. M. Jacobs, William Kuhlman, and J. W. Van Beynum. The Moose band has donated its services for the evening of the meeting and other musical organizations will appear on the program.

Really an Old Term.

"Cheek" in the sense of impudence is an old term. The earliest quotation in Sir James Murray's dictionary is from Captain Marryat (1840). But it has lately been found in the sixteenth century records of Galway, in the west of Ireland. The municipal rulers of that fighting city—the "men from Galway" has become proverbial for pluck and readiness to defend the hottest of corners—decreed that any person giving "cheke" to the mayor should "forfeit 100 shillings and have his body put into prison."

Patently Green.

Old Hand (to new ticket seller at state fair)—"Ever been on the wicket before in a crush?" New Hand—"Nope." Old Hand—"Thought not." New Hand—"Why not?" Old Hand—"You give change first, and tickets afterward." New Hand—"What is the difference?" Old Hand—"Hundreds of dollars, my boy. No one ever passes in and forgets his tickets."—Judge.

The reporter's life is a happy one. When he suffers an indignity the cause of that indignity is usually beneath consideration, or else the insult is due to some misunderstanding.

The speaker was Albert J. Beveridge, a one time reporter. He continued:

"I know a reporter who went to a house the day after a wedding and said to the servant who answered his ring:

"Can you let me have some details, please, of yesterday's ceremony?"

"The servant frowned. 'They ate every crumb! And I think you ought to be ashamed an able bodied young man like you, going around begging for cold details!'"

Robert Underwood Johnson, the poet and editor, declared at the University of New York's commencement that New York as a literary center was ridiculous—that nowhere in this country was poetry more appreciated than in Boston, and nowhere less than in New York.

Spring-sick, spring-tired, spring-languid, no appetite, dull, weak, debilitated—all these terms refer to the condition of thousands of people this spring. The mild, unhealthful winter, allowing the spread of disease germs, the unusual prevalence of prostrating fevers and other diseases, have all contributed to make the blood poor, thin and lacking in vitality. A spring medicine is absolutely necessary for the restoration of good health, normal strength, perfect digestion and pure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the perfect spring medicine—meets every requirement; has a record of a third of a century of successful use. Buy a bottle and begin to take it today.

PAPERS OWE PUBLIC TRUTHFUL REPORTS

Are Voters' Only Source of Information Says Prof. Bleyer in an Address at Beloit College.

Beloit, Wis., April 9.—The newspapers in reporting the events of the day constitute practically the only source of information for the average voter concerning the various social, economic, and political questions upon which he must vote. The rapidly increasing tendency of citizens to vote regardless of party affiliations and with the extension of methods of direct law making by means of the initiative and referendum demand that citizens have accurate information on men and measures. Any influence that tends to affect the accuracy of the facts concerning current events thereby tends to affect the basis underlying the opinions and the decisions of the voters. Upon the accuracy of the newspapers in matters of news, therefore, depends to a great extent the character of our government. The suppression or distortion of news by newspapers for any reason whatever, ceases, accordingly, to be a private matter and becomes a question of public policy.

So said Prof. Willard G. Bleyer, head of the course in journalism at the University of Wisconsin, in an address on "The Function of the Newspaper," here Tuesday afternoon before the students of Beloit college.

Have Public Function.

"Like common carriers, such as railroads, the newspapers have a public function as well as the private one of making money, and that public function is to furnish news, the commodity in which they deal in complete and accurate form.

"News adulterated and colored is as harmful to the opinions of newspaper readers as impure and poisonous food is to their physical constitutions. Before pure food legislation prohibited the adulterating, coloring and misbranding of food the buyer was at the mercy of the unscrupulous manufacturers, just as the newspaper reader now is at the mercy of the few unscrupulous newspaper makers. Although public sentiment has demanded laws to prevent impure food it has not insisted that its food for thought on political and economic subjects be furnished uncolored by the newspapers."

Newspaper Regulation.

"A generation ago government regulation of railroad rates, food stuffs and competition in business was regarded as unjustifiable interference with personal liberty. Today any government interference with newspapers is considered as an attack on the freedom of the press. Is it not possible that the next generation may see every newspaper in this country compelled by public opinion, if not by legislation, to give complete and unbiased reports of all the events of general interest?"

"Newspaper 'faking' often appeals to the young reporter as clever and commendable, particularly when he hears old newspaper men tell stories of successful 'fakes.' But every fake whether it deceives few or many lowers both the newspaper that publishes it and newspapers generally in the estimation of all who know that it is false. Thus the value of the press as a source of reliable information is seriously impaired."

'Faking' Indefensible.

"From whatever point of view 'faking' is regarded, it is indefensible. It hurts the public, it hurts the victim of the fake, it hurts the newspaper that publishes it, it hurts journalism generally."

"If reporters and correspondents realize that every story they write not only affects themselves, their newspapers, and the persons they write about, but also contribute toward forming the readers' opinions, they will consider carefully whether or not they can afford to permit haste or carelessness to impair the completeness and accuracy of their work."

GREAT POWER OF THE RAIL BROTHERHOODS

Reason for Their Tremendous Power is That Unions Are Great Insurance Companies.

The four principal railroad brotherhoods are made up of the engineers, the firemen, the conductors, and the trainmen, with a total membership of 25,000, or 35 per cent of the crews of the nation's 60,000 locomotives and 2,000,000 cars. The greatest, richest, most powerful, and most respected of these four big brothers is the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers—the model for all brotherhoods. The Brotherhood of Railway Firemen, which has lately been most largely in the public eye of its demand for a wage increase on all the Atlantic roads, learned much of its methods from the engineers' order.

All four big brothers are the teachers of all the little brothers, including telegraphers, clerks, carmen, trackmen, switchmen, and the organized shop craftsmen. The big and little brothers together comprise the great majority of the country's 1,700,000 railway employees. All are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, except the four big brothers.

What is it that holds these men together and gives them such great power as organizations? asks Gilson Willetts, in "The World's Work" for April. It is chiefly money. It is the millions of dollars paid in for dues and insurance and the resulting surplus funds. The handling of these vast sums gives these unions the complexion of great business enterprises, and the funds are administered in a way that has elicited the admiration of financiers.

The Cause of Rheumatism. Stomach trouble, lazy liver and deranged kidneys are the cause of rheumatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains of rheumatism. Charles B. Allen, a school principal, of Sylvania, Ga., who suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys, writes: "All remedies failed until I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Maybe your rheumatic pains come from your stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by People's Drug Store.

The millions paid into the brotherhood treasuries are used to maintain the greatest system of benevolence known to the labor world. The engineers, who organized fifty years ago, have insurance policies in force amounting to $130,000,000; they have paid out $24,000,000 to injured members and heirs. The firemen disburse $1,000,000 a year in injury benefits and have $87,000,000 in beneficiary certificates in force. The conductors' union has underwritten $100,000,000 of insurance and has disbursed $14,000,000 in benefits; it has paid $1,500,000 in monthly payments to aged and disabled members and has a reserve relief fund of nearly $2,000,000. The trainmen pay an average insurance of $2,350,000 a year and have disbursed $23,000,000 in benefits.

These organizations as a whole have underwritten half a million dollars of insurance. They have paid out altogether $100,000,000 in benefits at an administrative cost of from 1 1/4 to 2 1/2 per cent. And in addition to separate strike fund, always at the command of the chief, the engineers and conductors each have a strike fund of $100,000; and each has further immediately available resources of a million dollars for strike expenses.

Insurance, then, is the strongest pillar of the railway labor organizations.

MAKE GOOD PROGRESS IN REMODELING WORK

Y. M. C. A. Building Already Gives Promise of New Facilities It Will Offer When Completed.

Steady progress is being made in the remodeling of the Janesville Y. M. C. A. building which already gives promise of the excellent new facilities it will offer and the attractiveness it will have when the work is completed. Radical changes are being made in the basement. That part occupied by the shower-bath and locker room, and that part formerly used for bowling alleys will be converted into the boys' room. Two rows of lockers will run the length of the room where the bowling alleys were and a door will lead directly from it into the new shower baths which will be located in the middle room underneath the dormitory. This had been left unfinished previously. A screen partition will separate the locker section from the boys' game and reading room. An office for the supervisor will be placed in the basement and will have a window on the boys' room enabling him to keep it under constant supervision.

Locker and dressing rooms for the business men, the seniors, and the intermediates and high school boys, will open directly upon the bath room. A cement floor has been put in here, and a drain installed. The room is now being finished off. The business men's locker room is situated in the center of the rear and has large windows opening on the bowling alleys. Excavation for the swimming pool is now under way. This new addition to the Y. M. C. A. facilities will occupy the space between the present building and the north and west boundaries of the property. Three stories of dormitory rooms will be built over it.

Three bowling alleys are to be installed in the northeast corner of the basement, and on either side of them and extending their length will be placed seats for spectators. Ten large windows will light them during the day and wires and pipes have been laid over each alley for gas and electric illumination.

The new boiler room and coal bin will be situated in the extreme rear of the basement. The coal bin will open on the alley and have a carload capacity. A new steel hot-water tank with a capacity of 550 gallons has been received and will replace a smaller one of 300 gallons that previously supplied the bath-room. The old tank will be connected up so as to afford a reserve supply. A new toilet room will be placed at the foot of the stairway.

At the head of the stairway leading to the basement and opening on the new banquet hall, occupying the upper part of the old gymnasium, has been placed a commodious kitchen. The banquet room has a double door entrance from the front, wide windows, and two rows of lights. An attractive steel ceiling has been put in.

The new gymnasium on the second floor will be one of the finest of its size in the country, symmetrical in every way and will have an abundance of light. The running track that has been suspended from the ceiling is complete except for matting and railing. A stairway will communicate directly with the swimming pool, giving convenient access to all the locker rooms. The two front rooms on the second floor will be converted into a billiard room.

ELECT SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Mass., April 9.—A suffragan bishop for the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts is to be elected at the annual diocesan convention which opened this morning in the Cathedral of St. Paul in this city. At the opening of the convention, immediately after organization, the annual sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of the Groton School. The sermon was followed by the administration of the Holy Communion.

The election of the suffragan bishop will take place tomorrow morning. It is expected that only two names will be brought to the attention of the convention, those of the Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, archdeacon of the Massachusetts diocese, and the Rev. Dr. Herman Page, rector of St. Paul's church, Chicago.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING; HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marinette, Wis., April 9.—While on his way home with a can of beer in a heavy electrical storm last night,

Primit Kusik, a farmer of the town of Brazeau, Oconto county, was struck by lightning. He said the bolt struck him sideways and hurled him against a wire fence as though he were a porcupine. One of his ears was badly torn and he was bruised all over his body. He managed to crawl home on his hands and knees where he arrived covered with mud, but triumphantly carrying the can of beer. His condition is said to be quite serious.

BROADHURST'S PLAY A FINE ATTRACTION

"Bought and Paid For" With a Star Cast is a Notable Dramatic Event at Myers Theatre.

"Bought and Paid For," John Broadhurst's latest and best play, as presented at the Myers theatre last evening with the entire cast which appeared at the Princess theatre, Chicago, in the earlier part of the season, is a most satisfactory modern drama. Treating as it does a great domestic problem with vivid realism through the action of characters altogether human and delightful, the piece deserves to rank high among the productions of the season. Mr. Broadhurst shows wonderful skill in handling several very difficult situations but in no instance is the thing overdone, which is jointly to the credit of the actors and the playwright.

In the second and third acts the remarkable skill of the members of the cast was brought out in a marked degree, in the second where the light of domestic infidelity is first brought out, and in the third where comes the natural result of the situation in the previous act, the breaking up of the home.

The story of the play rests around the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stafford, the former a self-made millionaire portrayed by Mr. Frank Mills, who wins as his wife a telephone operator, in which part Miss Kathleen MacDonnell is delightful. Upon the girl he showers all the luxury that his great wealth can bring and their happiness for a time seems complete. The husband even includes in his generosity his wife's sister and her husband whom he gives a splendid salary far above his intellectual capabilities. But Stafford is possessed of one weakness which is sufficient to break up the happy home—he becomes a slave to drink and when drunk he loses respect and tender love which he otherwise shows towards his wife. He is always deeply repentant after his lapses but not enough so to forego the habit.

In the second act he is shown in one of his beastial moods. He charges that his wife has been "bought and paid for," and that she is therefore indebted to him and should respond to his every and any wish.

The acting in this part of the production was most realistic. A very difficult situation was handled with constraint and full realization of the importance of not carrying it too far. Mr. Mills had a hard part to fill and Miss MacDonnell gave a wonderful portrayal of the utter distress of the young wife.

The third act, the scene of the departure, when the husband refuses to promise total abstinence and the wife decides that her self-respect compels her to leave, is carried out with artistic skill. The final act where the reunion is consummated through the only real idea of the brother-in-law which really amounted to something, is also a very satisfying piece of dramatic action.

The part of the sister, Fanny Blaine, was delightfully taken by Miss Helen Lackaye, while Harry La Motte was natural in the part of James Gilley, Fanny's husband, a typical youth of the world, always dissatisfied with his conditions and rather prone to philosophical fault-finding. These two characters serve materially to furnish rich comedy which must be seen in order to be enjoyed.

Taken altogether too much cannot be said in praise of the ability of the cast, which Manager Brady has secured for this really gripping play, and it was an unfortunate thing that there was not a larger audience to enjoy it last evening.

Buy Your GRAIN SEED AT HOME

Every spring there are thousands of dollars sent out of this county for grain seed; notwithstanding that the best corn in the country is raised here; that there are no better small grains than those already acclimated to this state.

The sole reason seems to be that it is hard to find local men who have seed for sale.

The Gazette is doing away with this difficulty. The Seed Column of the Gazette Classified Page is run for the sole purpose of allowing local seed men to reach the prospective buyers. Each day the Daily Gazette reaches 3000 farm homes and any with grain seed for sale cannot fail to profit by its use.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH THE DICTIONARY.

D ID you ever try to define a word? I don't simply mean to give a vague idea of its meaning, but to accurately define a word just as the dictionary does.

If you never have, make the experiment some day. I think you will get a lot of surprise when you find how difficult it is. We all think we know the meaning of the common words we use day in and day out; but how many of them could we really define? Not one probably. Knowing a thing and being able to express it accurately are two very different matters. Besides, we don't really know the full meaning of half the words we use.

Some evening when you want something to talk of about the open fire, or around the reading lamp, bring up this subject. Someone will be sure to say that he can easily define simple words. Suggest that he begin by defining some very common word like "animal." The chances are a hundred to one that he will not be able to do it correctly.

Remember, a definition may describe the thing to be defined perfectly and yet not be a good definition. For it must not only describe that thing, but it must also exclude all others, and unless it does that it is not a real definition.

Most of us are too apt to think of the dictionary as a very stupid book, to be consulted only when we want to know how to spell a word, and not even then if we can get the information in any other way. That is all wrong. If we want to understand the English language, we ought to consult the dictionary as often as a child to learn to express himself well in written and spoken English, and I know of no more valuable tool with which to work for success than just that ability. I should give him a small, but reliable dictionary as soon as he learned to read, show him how to use it, and insist that he keep it in a convenient place and consult it constantly. I think I should also supply him with a thesaurus which, as you probably know, is a book somewhat like a dictionary, but containing synonyms for words instead of their definitions. If more people were acquainted with these two books, we should not have so much slovenly English talked and written.

To return to my original theme. Don't forget to try the game of definitions. It will be good mental discipline, and I fancy it will inspire in you a new respect for the men who make the dictionaries, especially for the pioneer Samuel Johnson. I can remember a time when I used to wonder why compiling the dictionary was considered Johnson's greatest achievement. Since trying to define a few words myself, I wonder no longer.

Yellow Split Pea Soup.

Materials—Yellow split peas, one cup; milk, one quart; small onions, one; cloves, three; bay leaf, one; chopped parsley, one tablespoon; butter, two tablespoons; flour, two tablespoons; salt, pepper and celery salt. Utensils—Saucepan, colander, measuring cup, measuring spoon, double boiler, puree sieve, bowl, paring knife and tablespoon.

Directions—Wash the peas, cover with cold water and soak over night. In the morning do not drain but turn into the saucepan and add two cups of water and the salt, pepper, bay leaf and onion with cloves stuck into it. Simmer until peas are tender—about two hours; press through the colander, then the puree sieve and return to the double boiler with the hot milk. Rub the butter and flour together in the bowl, moisten with the hot soup until it will pour and stir into the soup until boiling. Add chopped parsley and serve with croutons or a small square of toasted bread in each plate and pour over the soup.

All milk dishes should be cooked in a double boiler.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

D ON'T flatter yourself that friendship authorizes you to say disagreeable things to your intimates. The nearer you come into relation with a person, the more necessary do tact and courtesy become. Except in cases of necessity, which are rare, leave your friend to learn unpleasant things from his enemies; they are ready enough to tell them.

IDEAS THE OTHER WOMAN HAS FOUND OUT.

Do you know that many of the daily tasks may be done while sitting? Paring potatoes, wiping many of the dishes, and even ironing, if one has a high stool. Many women never sit, just from force of habit, when the strength might be well saved and the feet rested by taking the pressure off from them. When standing, in ironing, always stand on a rug folded in many thicknesses, as the spring rests the feet.

One way to save the dishes is to use a damp cloth and a dry one in the dining-room to wipe dishes that are used for foods which are not much soiled.

If you scorch a dish of food when cooking, scrape it out and add a little soda, with a pint or less of cold water. Let the water boil, when the food can be removed without scratching the dish.

When an obstinate spot of scorched or burned-on food refuses to come off, rub with a piece of pumice stone. This scrapes without injuring the surface.

There is no economy in using old or worn-out tools or utensils. A leaky pail, which leaves its trail wherever it is carried, is worse than poor economy.

Do not bang or gouge the hands and fingers using the stove iron or a piece of wood for a hammer.

Have a small egg beater which will beat an egg in a cup. Get good small wooden spoons for stirring and mixing. They are easy on the hands and never get hot when used in the dishes cooking on the stove.

Have a soap shaker for dish-washing; in this every scrap of laundry soap may be saved and used.

Good sharp knives for paring and carving, and a good knife sharpener is a true necessity in every home.

SENATOR'S DAUGHTER TO WED IN AUTUMN

Annie Kay Smoot.

Senator and Mrs. Reed Smoot of Utah have announced the engagement of their daughter, Annie Kay Smoot, to Mr. Grover Rebertsch of Salt Lake City. The wedding will take place early in the autumn. The family expect to remain in Washington until the close of the extra session and then return to the Salt Lake City home, where, in the house where their daughter was born, the wedding will take place.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Am twenty years old. Is it proper for me to go to dances with a fellow two years my junior? (2) How late should a young man stay when calling on a girl on Sunday evening? (3) How often should a fellow go to see a girl when he has been going with her about two months?

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY.
(1) Yes—except public dances. You know you would be a sort of chaperone for him, as he is only a lad. (2) He ought to go home at 10 sharp. (3) It depends how much he is in love with her. Twice a week ought to be enough.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am twenty-seven years old, regularly employed at $17.50 per week. Desire to get married. Do you consider this amount sufficient to support two? (2) If so, how would you advise the best way to meet the young ladies, being a perfect stranger in the city I find it is almost impossible to get acquainted. I have been going to church, but that has proven to be a failure. I am not hard to please, all I want is a good pure girl, one that is willing to endure a few hardships until we can get a start. I am from a good family and have good habits. Where can I find her?

"JIMMIE."

(1) With economy two people can live on this sum and be happy. (2) I still think church is the best medium for meeting desirable young women. I don't mean simply going to church services, but mixing up with all the church affairs. Get acquainted with the men and through them meet their daughters or sisters. Don't be backward, but ask for invitations to the homes of men you know. I hope you will meet the right girl and that you both will be very happy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a young man of sixteen; got blue eyes, light hair and a light complexion. What am I? (2) If a girl gets cross at a boy, who should speak first? (3) Is it right for a boy to stay out very late with a girl, and how long? (4) Is my writing good? (5) Do you think it is right to speak to girls that talk bad?

AN EXETER FOOL.

Household Hints

In Place of High-Priced Fresh Meats.

Egg Gems—Take one cup left-over meat chopped fine, add one cup fine bread crumbs, a little chopped onion, a tablespoon melted butter, milk sufficient to bind, and salt and pepper to taste. Put in well-greased muffin tin, fill three-fourths full, carefully break an egg on top of each and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake eight or ten minutes.

Hash—Dumplings—Make dough a little richer than for apple dumplings. Have hash prepared in usual way. Roll pastry, cut in small squares, in center of which put large spoonful of hash. Then gather up the four corners and pinch firmly together. Put in baking pan, rub tops with melted butter and bake brown. Garnish with parsley and serve hot.

Meat Roll—Make a biscuit dough of three cups of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-third cup of lard and sweet milk to mix well. Roll into a square one-half inch thick and spread with a paste made of one cup chopped cooked meat, one teaspoonful made mustard, two beaten eggs, a little onion, one-fourth teaspoonful each of salt and pepper, and one-half teaspoonful extract of beef, with enough liquid to spread well. Roll like a jelly roll and bake about 30 minutes and serve hot.

As fresh meats are very expensive, I find these two recipes very good and enough for four or five persons.

Veal Pie—Select about 1½ pounds veal (rather lean), wash and boil slowly in sufficient water until very tender. Make pastry same as usual. Line pan about three inches deep and the size of a dinner plate. Add veal and stock enough to cover well, salt and pepper to taste, sift in a little flour, then add a few pieces of the pastry. Cover with top crust and bake until brown. (Cut veal in small pieces.)

Salmon Croquettes—One can salmon, two medium-sized white potatoes. Remove bones from salmon, boil potatoes until soft. Mash together and add pepper and salt to taste. Make into round balls, brush with egg-flour and brown in hot dripping.

Irish Stew with Drop Dumplings—Take any left-overs or cheap cuts of beef or lamb and boil until tender; add two medium-sized onions, season with salt and pepper, add two or three potatoes cut in halves or quarters, and, if liked, a carrot or two, and a parsnip or turnip, cut into rather small pieces. When vegetables are nearly done, sift one cup of flour, one teaspoon baking powder and a little salt together; stir with sweet milk into a rather stiff dough and drop from a teaspoon into the stew. Cover and let boil 10 or 12 minutes.

Fitted for the Part.

When a new member of the Irish house of commons made his first speech, Sir William Osborne asked who he was, and, being told, he replied: "Well, I think he will do. If the opposition have enlisted him they are perfectly in the right, for he seems to have the finest face for a grievance of any man I ever beheld."—National Monthly.

The Delightful Schoolrooms of the Future

IF reports are true, the school child of the future will ascend the hill of knowledge in a comfortable limousine on the high speed. In fact, the schoolroom of the future, and not a distant future, either, will be such an altogether delightful place, that the probability is, most of us will want to turn in and go to school again.

For the "movies" are to invade the schoolroom; in fact, have invaded it in some places. And not only the "movies" as we know them now, but their latest development, the talking picture.

For Mr. Edison's latest invention is a moving picture, in which speech is fitted so accurately to action, that the characters seemingly talk.

The "Iliad," the "Odyssey," Shakespeare's plays, Dickens' works and other of the world's famous and greatest literature, enacted by the world's greatest artists, will be presented to the pupils.

In the fields of biology, botany, chemistry, and like studies, the film will show the development of a seed into the flower and its final decomposition back into dust; the hatching of an egg; the development of a butterfly from the chrysalis; the ravages of tuberculosis; the antics of a horsefly; the blood coursing through the human veins; Metchnikoff's discoveries of the action of the white corpuscles of the blood known as phagocytosis; and many other things the pupil now laboriously and imperfectly absorbs from the printed page of a book.

Geography is taking its place on the film. The war in the Balkans is shown by picturing all the Balkan States in different colors, only these colors are movable, and change as the different nations conquer these countries. The lecturer tells how the Turks invaded Europe about 1480, and immediately a red wave—the color of the Ottoman possessions—rolls across the Bosphorus and almost over Austria before it is checked and slowly driven back. Then it spreads southward, and nearly covers Greece, until about the time when Lord Byron helped to push it back; and every now and then, the school child sees Serbia and Bulgaria and Roumania forcing their colors out against the red.

Right in the middle of the map is a little green spot—from Montenegro—and every now and then there comes a wave of the Turkish color right up to the "Black Mountains," but those brave mountaineers push it back every time. Then up comes a great big red wave, and the pupil thinks for a moment that the little green spot is bound to be swallowed up; but the red just dashes up to it like a wave striking a rock, and rolls back again.

What child will not greedily absorb geography or history when presented in that fashion—and remember it too.

And since the movies can be so helpful and so enjoyable, every right-thinking person should lend all his influence to keep this wonderful invention on the plane where it will be helpful and not harmful.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Gitchell Kirk

Good milk is the most valuable single article of diet known to man, while bad, impure milk is one of the most dangerous foods possible.

In clean, pure milk we have the one perfect food for the human being, and the education of the consumer in the care of milk should go hand in hand with the increased demands made on the milk farmer, for a cleaner, higher grade of milk, and on the distributor for greater care in the handling of the product.

It is a well known fact that the average housewife, living in the town or city, knows little about the milk that is supplied to her family. She knows nothing as to where the milk comes from that is delivered at her door each day, and she knows almost as little of how the milk is cared for, once it has reached her refrigerator. If the housewife inspects her kitchen and refrigerator each day, she sees in the latter a bottle of milk. Possibly the milk may be in a bowl or pitcher, but the chances are that nine times out of ten, whatever container the milk is in, is uncovered. The milk is left to absorb every odor from every particle of food in the ice box, which it does as greedily as a sponge absorbs water.

If the milk is not in the ice box, it may be left in a warm pantry or on the kitchen table uncovered. In the summer time, it offers an ideal drinking fountain for the typhoid fly, which is sure to haunt the kitchen of the careless housewife.

The careless handling of a product, so delicate, is due to one of two causes—either the health of her family, or she is ignorant as to the effect of such careless handling of milk. One knows that no housewife could be indifferent to the health of her family; hence we must conclude that the careless handling of milk in the home is due to ignorance.

Of what use is it for the federal government to enforce the pure food law, as it relates to milk, or for the individual state or for the city or the town to enact and enforce laws for the protection of the milk supply for the dairy farmer and the distributor of milk, to expend large sums of money in producing and delivering, a clean, pure supply of milk, when the ignorant and indifferent housewife, by her careless methods in the home, nullifies all the work? In many a home milk is treated with as little care as a bag of potatoes.

If consumers knew how dangerous to health is the consumption of dirty milk, they would with one accord demand a clean product and willingly pay the increased cost. Clean milk costs more than dirty milk, but even at an increased cost it is an unexpen-

Belle Bosquet was deserted. For miles around stretched the heart-stirring panorama of fenceless, trampled fields, ruined farms and empty granaries.

For Sheridan had accomplished only too literally the fateful task assigned him by General Grant.

"In pushing up the Shenandoah valley . . . it is desirable that nothing should be left to invite the enemy to return. Take all provisions, forage and stock wanted for the use of your command. Such as cannot be consumed destroy."

The same destination that compelled Early to retreat as far as Newmarket, forty miles south of Cedar Creek, to supply and reorganize the broken Confederate forces prevented Sheridan from following them into this region. His cavalry, however, during this pause in the movements of the main army was set about a campaign against the guerrilla bands of Mosby and Gilmore.

It was not until a fortnight after the battle of Cedar Creek that Gertrude Ellingham and the small party of friends and neighbors who journeyed with her and likewise followed the path of necessity, as well as of duty and affection, in moving southward after the army, came up with the corps that had been General Ramseur's and which included her brother Robert's regiment.

But General Ramseur had been killed, the cavalry was for the most part dismounted, and Colonel Ellingham's precise whereabouts could not be ascertained. He had gone out on a raid with the irregulars who were harassing Sheridan's rear to prevent his carrying out General Grant's orders to cut Lee's railroad communications by which supplies were brought from the south for the Confederate army at Petersburg.

"And what has General Early done with the prisoners he brought here?" Gertrude inquired, with sinking heart. "Sent them on to Danville, maybe to North Carolina, and the officers probably to Richmond," was the vague reply she got. "You see, miss, it's hard enough scraping now to feed our own men."

Kerchival West was among these prisoners, and so was Captain Heartsense, and both were seemingly in condition to bear transportation. This much information was elicited on trustworthy authority, and it compensated for the hardships and anxieties through which the dauntless Virginia girl had passed. From Staunton she sent these reassuring tidings to Jenny Buckthorn, who remained with her father at Winchester, and to Madeline West, whom General Haverill had sent with an escort to Washington.

Love alone must guide her in her search, Gertrude declared, but she had the courage to resolve that love should win. Her home was broken up, the valley desolated, and the cause upon which all had been staked was narrowing down to a deadly crisis where mere self-interest, fortune, even life itself, had to be thrown unhesitatingly into the balance.

While she waited at Staunton for some clue, some enlightenment to determine what direction her pilgrimage should take now that the winter was about setting in, a detachment of the wild mounted troops came up the valley from a successful raid on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in West Virginia. A bearded savage rushed with a glad cry at Gertrude—and she was laughing and crying in her brother's arms.

"Oh, Rob," she faltered, "I was beginning to think I should never see you again nor any one else I loved!" "Don't grieve up, sis!" he enjoined, but his tone was worried and serious. "We are not beaten yet. If we have to leave the valley the enemy can't stay here either. He is trying to prevent us from joining General Lee at Petersburg, but to the 'identities' we are keeping him and an army bigger than all our forces put together from going to help General Grant, who, after all, is no nearer to Richmond than McClellan was two years and a half ago!" "Oh, never mind the armies now! Where can I find those two poor prisoners?"

Bob shook his head and paced the floor in troubled silence.

"Where is Thornton now?" asked Gertrude anxiously.

"To my certain knowledge he is keeping in touch with Mosby at Leesburg or Upperville. It is not at all likely he even knows that Kerchival was captured at Cedar Creek. But he is such a vindictive devil that I suppose he will always be looking out for the satisfaction of his private revenge before the interests of the service."

In the Federal camps at Kernstown and Winchester the bustle of confident activity and a general air of hopeful expectation were as marked as the spirit of grim, dogged determination was behind the scenes at Confederate headquarters. At the beginning of the new year one of the two divisions of the Nineteenth corps, under General Buckthorn, was sent to Petersburg, reducing the effective force of the Army of the Shenandoah to one division of Infantry and three of cavalry, General Haverill's among the latter.

General Haverill's mood of somber reserve was a matter of inquietude to his friends and a puzzle to those of the army who knew him only in his soldierly capacity. He went about his military duties in the silent, dispirited manner of a fatalist. Not a man in the army dared to formulate the question that was in the minds of many. Did the general suspect that the heroic Lieutenant Bedloe, who sacrificed his life at Three Top mountains, was his own disgraced son? Those who knew best declared that he did not—and the famous despatch to Washington in praise of Bedloe's deed was adduced as confirming evidence.

When Gertrude Ellingham wrote for particulars as to Kerchival West's violation of the order of arrest to participate in the battle of Cedar Creek, the general replied with formal brevity that he must disclaim responsibility as well as any special knowledge in the matter. When Jenny Buckthorn questioned him personally in the hope of getting some clue that might aid in finding Captain Heartsense, wounded and captured in Lieutenant Bedloe's raid upon the enemy's signal station, he was scarcely more communicative, except on one point—that Captain Heartsense, following the practice of Major Young's scouts, had worn a Confederate uniform, which would put him in the category of a secret service officer or spy and therefore prejudice his status as a prisoner of war.

Evidently General Haverill had but little comfort to give to others, and it was certain he kept none for himself. The chain of circumstances, from the unexplained duel of Kerchival West and Edward Thornton at Charleston, to the recent happenings in which Kerchival's name was still coupled with that of Mrs. Constance Haverill, culminating in the damning fact that the telltale miniature portrait given in a trying hour to young Frank Haverill had turned up three and a half years later in the possession of Colonel West, bound a proud and sensitive nature like that of the general to disavowal silence.

General Sheridan's work in the Shenandoah valley was now practically completed. He was now ready to plan a junction with General Grant at Petersburg, convinced that a decisive Federal victory there would open the gates of Richmond and close the war.

Here in the beleaguered capital Bob received the first direct word from his sister Gertrude that had come to him for many anxious weeks. She had left Danville after a long and harrowing search there which disclosed the fact that Kerchival West was among a convoy of sick and wounded prisoners lately "sent on" presumably to Richmond. Thither Gertrude herself was now making her way as best she might, attended by the unshakable Josephus.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Surrender.

IT was a lovely Sabbath morning of springtime—the 2d of April, 1863. The church bells of Richmond had rung out the summons to divine service.

At St. Paul's Episcopal church the usual large and aristocratic congregation listened attentively to the earnest discourse of the Rev. Dr. Minnigerode.

Jefferson Davis, the chief executive of the southern Confederacy, occupied his pew in the middle of the central aisle, newly opposite the now vacant one belonging to General Robert B. Lee.

An orderly in uniform entered the church somewhat precipitately, yet without disturbance, and delivered a telegram to Mr. Davis, who quietly rose and went out. The occurrence was noticed, but attracted no special attention among a congregation now accustomed to sudden alarms and untimely notice of threatened attacks. It was the day after the battle of Five Forks.

The dispatch was from General Lee, announcing his withdrawal from Petersburg and the consequent necessity for the immediate evacuation of Richmond. "Immediate evacuation" meant getting out by 8 o'clock that night. The news spread as only such news can. Women wept, men wept and cursed and defied, children wondered, negroes rather enjoyed the excitement, especially after the issue of a proclamation to the effect that all who wished might come to the commissary department and get free provisions.

As for the soldiers, they had their orders from General Lee's troops were to leave their lines everywhere at 8 o'clock that evening and take up the line of march for Amelia Court House, a small Virginia village on the Richmond and Danville railroad, some forty miles southwest of Richmond.

Early in the afternoon Colonel Robert Ellingham hastily dismounted from his horse in front of a house in Franklin street and sprang up the front steps. Before he reached the door it flew open and Gertrude, freshly dressed in eager welcome. Beside her, in black civilian clothes, stood what looked like the ghost of Kerchival West. In the background appeared another familiar phantom of the far past—none other than Dr. Ellingham of Charleston, now white haired and more aged looking than the lapse of years alone should have called for.

"Sister! Kerchival, old boy! Uncle!" panted Bob, full of excitement. "Were you prepared for the news? What do you think you'll do?"

"Kerchival and I are going to be married right away," answered Gertrude, with the astounding impetuosity of one who had arranged and settled everything. "Married!" gasped Bob, instinctively clutching the air, as if for support. "Now—at such a time? Don't you know that I am under marching orders and that President Davis and the cabinet are to leave for Danville by the evening train and that the Federal army will be occupying Richmond by this time tomorrow?"

"Yes, Robert. We were in church this morning when the news came. Kerchival and I have figured it all out, and the doctor agrees with us—that as Richmond has fallen and Kerchival has been released from Libby on parole and uncle is here from Charleston the only way for us two to guard against separation again is to get married now so that I can be with—with my husband, whatever happens. So we have sent for the Rev. Dr. Minnigerode, and now that you are here, the ceremony can be performed and you be off to join General Lee in half an hour's time, for I suppose he will need you now more than ever."

So they were married, Kerchival and Gertrude, and Colonel Ellingham left them immediately after the ceremony radiantly happy together in the midst of the climatic converging of all the storms of war.

President Davis and his cabinet had left Richmond by special train for Danville. Colonel Robert Ellingham had hurried away on horseback in the opposite direction immediately after the marriage ceremony to join the army of General Lee, now marching out of Petersburg up the north side of the Appomattox river toward Amelia Court House.

The only people who remained in Richmond were those who were poor and could not go away, or those who, like the Ellinghams, had home interests to hold them there and no other place to go to should they leave the city, and those others who, like Colonel Kerchival West, were Union soldiers in Confederate prisons or on parole.

At the same time General Grant was riding into Petersburg through deserted streets between rows of closed, silent streets. The next day he started with his army after the departing Confederates, his columns moving south of the Appomattox parallel to Lee's route north of that stream. He had foreseen that Lee in his retreat would endeavor to reach Amelia Court House, where his separate columns coming from Petersburg and Richmond could unite and where he might expect to receive supplies.

Two days later, the retreat continuing, Sheridan descended with a large force upon the Confederate rear-guard at Sailor's creek, a small tributary flowing north into the Appomattox, and overwhelmed the commands of Generals Dwell and Anderson, capturing them and several other high officers, including General Lee's eldest son, General G. W. Custis Lee.

On April 7 the Confederates stopped at Farmville to feast, having come up with the first provisions that had reached them since leaving Petersburg, and to fight again. This time they succeeded in beating off Sheridan's cavalry and pushed on another stage toward Lynchburg.

BABY'S FACE ONE SORE WITH ECZEMA

Cried for Hours, Could Not Sleep.
Resinol Brought Rest and Cure.

Reading, Pa.—"My baby girl had eczema for over six months. It was painful and itching, she could not sleep day or night, she would scratch till blood and water would run down her neck. Then it burned her so she cried for hours at a time. The right side of her face was one sore and scab."

"I got the samples of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment on a Saturday morning, and put them on, and put them on again in the afternoon and in the evening before I put her to bed, and she went to sleep and slept till next morning. I thought I was in heaven the first night, and by Monday the eczema was dried up so that all the scabs fell off. Resinol Soap and Ointment cured my baby."—Mrs. Wm. M. UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.

BY WALT MASON

I'd fain be a fishing while I sit here dishing up molasses verses for butter and bread. I'd like to be straying in green lanes and playing in sweet scented meadows with blossoms be spread. I yearn for the forest where songbirds have chorused their air-arms in April for thousands of years; I sigh for the wildwood where now, as in childhood, I'd gambol around like the friskiest steers. I'd like to be swimming, like gosling, skimming around in the brooklet, my clothes on the brink; it's sad to be trammelled by bathtub enamel, when one is so anxious to plunge in the drink. This life brings me closer to butcher and grocer, I order my fish from the market or store; no more do I angle, my baited hooks dangle in front of the suckers and troutlets no more. I sigh for the open, I find myself hoping that I can go fishing in June or July; but just for the present I find my chair pleasant, and I am contented to sit here and sigh. In spring time we're yearning, our bosoms are burning with fond recollections of woodland and stream; it all ends in wishing; when some one says "Fishing," we think staying home is a bully good scheme.

SPRINGS LONGINGS

To be strong evidence of guilt on both sides. He sucked his thumb and pondered. "Ten days each," he was beginning, when suddenly— "Harold!" "Hannah!" Recognition was mutual. He was her fiancé and she was his fiancée, the additional "e" making no difference in the pronunciation. "Isn't that funny?" said the magistrate, and let them both go.

The Daily Novelette

THE FOLLOWING MAN

"Over the hills and far away, April flowers wet in May; it knocks at the door but once, sir."

A man was following her. "Officer," she said fearfully, "that man has been following me for several steps. Pray, sir, pinch him."

"Judge," explained the timorous fawn, "that man has been following me."

"Nothing of," protested he. "Your Honor, she was walking in front of me."

The magistrate sucked his forefinger and pondered. There seemed to be strong evidence of guilt on both sides. He sucked his thumb and pondered.

"Ten days each," he was beginning, when suddenly—

"Harold!"

"Hannah!"

Recognition was mutual. He was her fiancé and she was his fiancée,

"Isn't that funny?" said the magistrate, and let them both go.
